HOW TO KEEP YOURS LOOKING GREAT

HOW CAN I MAINTAIN MY OUTDOOR NATURAL STONE TILES?

Natural stone hardly requires any maintenance. Apart from a thorough clean after installation and some annual maintenance, you can simply let nature take its course. A heavy shower and some sunshine will do all the work for you.

Another characteristic of natural stone is that it follows a natural ageing process. After a few years, your patio, drive or stairs will look different, but that is exactly what makes natural stone such an intriguing material.

THE FIRST (THOROUGH) CLEAN

Once your outdoor tiles have been laid and grouted, they will need a thorough clean. Give them a good scrub with Lithofin MN Power Clean to easily remove all cement haze, grout and dust particles. Repeat until the surface is completely clean.

SPRING CLEAN

After the frost of winter and the leaves falling in autumn, you are advised to thoroughly clean and condition your natural stone patios, paths, stairs, walls and drive with Lithofin MN Outdoor Cleaner. This product quickly acts to remove damp and dark stains and discolouration caused by plants, trees or flowers. After just a few minutes, your stone surfaces will look bright and clean again.

DAILY MAINTENANCE

The daily cleaning of your outdoor natural stone tiles is a breeze. A heavy shower will work wonders on grease stains after a barbecue, for example. So simply let nature take its course!

TIPS

- Never use a pressure washer. The powerful water jet will damage the joints and open up the pores in the tiles, making them more likely to turn green.
- After years of service, your patio will definitely benefit from a good clean with Lithofin MN Power Clean. This will remove general dirt such as grease stains, cleaning product residue, gloss layers and so on.
