LOCATION

Falkland is one of Fife's most visited heritage villages, attracting a steady flow of domestic and overseas tourists throughout the year.

The village sits at the foot of the Lomond Hills and on the edge of Lomond Hills Regional Park, making it a popular destination for walkers, cyclists and outdoor enthusiasts.

The Covenanter's central square location places it at the focal point of the village, immediately adjacent to Falkland Palace and within walking distance of all local attractions, shops and car parks. Edinburgh, Dundee, St Andrews and Perth are all easily accessible, underpinning strong short-stay and touring trade.

DESCRIPTION

The Covenanter Hotel is an architecturally significant historic building with origins dating back to 1771, originally trading as the Commercial Hotel.

Constructed in traditional stone with slate roofing, the property features a Roman Doric columned doorway and later Baronial-style extensions dating from the late 19th Century. The hotel is Category B Listed, reflecting its special architectural and historic interest, contributing materially to the visual character of Falkland Square.

The Covenanter Hotel enjoys international fame as a filming location in the globally successful television series Outlander. The property was used as "Mrs Baird's Guesthouse" in the opening episode of the series. The business has benefited significantly from tourist bookings and footfall from as far as the USA and beyond.

THE OPPORTUNITY

The Covenanter Hotel represents a rare opportunity to acquire a new lease for the historic hotel in one of Fife's most desirable and commercially resilient village locations. With a strong international profile, diversified income base, proven trading performance and significant character appeal, the property will appeal to both lifestyle purchasers and experienced hospitality investors seeking a distinctive and sustainable business.

INTERNAL DETAILS

The traditional licensed bar forms a central part of the business, serving both residents and a loyal local and visitor clientele. The bar benefits from a relaxed, characterful environment consistent with the heritage nature of the building and is popular with walkers, tour groups and evening diners. Strong wet-led performance is supported by consistent footfall from Falkland Palace visitors and Outlander tours, while evening trade benefits from limited competing licensed premises within the village.

The Covenanter Hotel operates a well regarded restaurant offering a menu focused on traditional Scottish and British cuisine. Dishes such as fresh fish and chips, haggis and homemade desserts are particular highlights, with regular praise for portion size and value. The restaurant trades throughout the day with lunch and evening dining, alongside a traditional weekend carvery that attracts both locals and visitors. The food offering is a key driver of both destination dining and ancillary spend from hotel guests. The main restaurant space can be split of and utilised for private events.

The daytime coffee shop provides an important additional revenue stream and significantly boosts daytime footfall, located in the main building serving customers for takeaway, inside seating and utilising the outside seating area. Serving barista coffee, teas, homemade cakes and light lunches, the coffee shop caters strongly to day-trippers, walkers, and coach groups visiting Falkland. This element of the business captures trade that might otherwise pass through the village and provides consistent turnover outside of peak hotel check-in and dining hours.

LETTING ACCOMMODATION

The hotel currently offers five comfortable recently refurbished en suite letting bedrooms, each furnished to reflect the character of the historic building while providing modern amenities. Several rooms enjoy open views across Falkland Square towards the Bruce Fountain and surrounding hills, enhancing guest appeal. The accommodation consistently attracts positive reviews for comfort, cleanliness and atmosphere, supporting strong repeat and recommendation business. Room sizes and layouts are typical of historic properties and present scope for further enhancement or re-positioning if desired by an incoming owner.

All fixtures and fittings will be included in the sale. Any personal belongings owned by the current owners will be removed before the sale.
