Every 14 minutes, someone in the UK is diagnosed with blood cancer.

DKMS is a charity committed to helping patients with blood cancer and blood disorders, by providing second chances at life to those in need of a stem cell transplant as part of their treatment.

This World Blood Cancer Day, you could help us in giving someone a second chance at life.

If you're aged between 16-55 and in general good health, get registered for all patients in need.
