How to do all the financial stuff you've been avoiding

The Behavioral Portfolio

Managing portfolios and investor behavior in a complex economy

By Phillip Toews

Investment advisors face two challenges: the portfolios offered leaves investors vulnerable to severe economic events and emotional stress, and the way that investors are educated about their portfolios isn't effective at helping them curb biases. The Behavioral Portfolio examines the risks of both stock and bond portfolios from historically comprehensive perspective to help illustrate that, based on market history, the current approach could lead to a break-down of clients' portfolios and our practices.

Once portfolios are built according to these new parameters, portfolio communications are shifted to pro-actively prepare investors for challenges ahead. Instead of following the crowd and shifting out of assets at unfavorable time, investors are trained to both understand the markets and to think counter-intuitively. Behavioral portfolios and communications allows investors to enjoy a higher probability of success and greater peace of mind throughout their investing lives.

The Humble Investor

How to find a winning edge in a surprising world

By Daniel Rasmussen

The Humble Investor establishes the truths about what works in investing, through study of the data. How to find the right investments to buy and hold – and avoid the wrong ones, and how to exploit pockets of investment opportunity and invest successfully through bubbles, crises, inflation, and other tests of time. Why just be contrarian when you can bet against consensus and be right?

Through a meta-analysis of what moves markets and what drives human behaviour, Daniel Rasmussen cuts through the 60/40 portfolio, exposing where empirical evidence shows the best opportunities and where projections, models, and experts often fail to create an asset allocation that can withstand the tests of time.

Daniel Rasmussen is the founder and portfolio manager of Verdad Advisers, a $900M hedge fund. Before launching Verdad, he worked at Bain Capital Private Equity and Bridgewater Associates. In 2017, Rasmussen was named to the Forbes 30 under 30 list. He is a contributor to the Wall Street Journal.

The Pro-Retail Trader

How to generate professional-level returns as a retail trader

By Steve Ruffley

A guide to how retail traders can trade like the professionals from someone who has actually done it. The Pro Retail Trader bridges the gap between the professional world of trading in which the author, Steve Ruffley, was trained and that of retail where he now places these kinds of trades.

Time is money, so they say. Ruffley has spent decades perfecting ways of making the largest amounts of money he can, from the least amounts of time day trading. This translates to numbers like, $10k in 2 minutes, $77k in 2 hours and $90K in 1 day. Like the Professionals he only trades to make money, to make $1000's and classes himself as a Pro-retail trader. Making 'Pro' level trader amounts, but doing this trading with a retail broker. This is important because anyone can be a retail trader, not everyone can be a 'Pro' trader. You can be taught how to trade but not everyone can learn how to make money, real money, from trading.

Steve Ruffley has been involved in the finance industry for nearly 25 years. From risk managing pro traders to running a trading floor Steve has worked with some of the best traders in the business, at the largest trading firms. He has seen insights to Pro trading that few people, even pro traders themselves, ever get to see.

The Uncomfortable Truth About Money

How to live with uncertainty and learn to think for yourself

By Paul Podolsky

We are all stuck in a money cage. Money isn't the most important thing, but it is a thing and you can't get away from it. Birth costs money and death costs money. So even if you hate talking about money, you need to know the basics, the same way you need to know how to cook yourself a simple meal.

The problem with most money books is that they are not written by practitioners and avoid hard truths. What a weathered investor knows is that stocks are not always good for the long run. They know that being stingy helps accrue wealth. They know the big thing when you buy property has nothing to do with the property. They know the big thing is less what happens to the markets in a day than if the entire system holds together. And they know what to look for if it's time to pull out.

This new book will teach you a lifetime of money learnings distilled to a thin volume, like a basic cooking recipe you can follow.

Buffett's Early Investments helps readers understand how history's greatest ever investor really made his returns in the years where he produced his best numbers – and what that means for investors today.

Unicorns, Hype and Bubbles

A guide to spotting, avoiding and exploiting investment bubbles in tech

By Jeffrey Funk

New technologies are an investment minefield. Putting money behind them means taking a risk on unproven ventures, often from inexperienced (and potentially unscrupulous) developers. While some will lead the investor to fantastic gains, many others turn out to be mere bubbles – a flimsy veneer of excitement and hype with little profitable at the core.

From cryptocurrencies, blockchain, the metaverse, Web3, and NFTs, to self-driving vehicles, delivery drones, solid state batteries, eVTOLs, and more, technology bubbles have been inflating and popping for many years. Each time a bubble pops, tens if not hundreds of billions of investment dollars disappear with them.

Unicorns, Hype, and Bubbles arms the reader with the tools required to differentiate between bubbles and genuine, sustainable technological revolutionaries.

Cycles

The mysterious forces that trigger events

By Edward R. Dewey with Og Mandino

Edward R. Dewey was chief economist in the Hoover Administration and tasked by President Hoover to figure out what caused the 1929 stock market crash and ensuing depression.

In the course of his extensive investigations, he became convinced that something important was missing from our collective knowledge of how economies and societies work – a working knowledge of cycles. He was joined in his quest to establish a “science of cycles” by other leaders of his time, including Ivy League scientists, Smithsonian Directors, Industrial CEOs, Ambassadors, and political leaders.

This trading classic, now back in print, was first published in 1971. Cycles was Dewey’s answer to President Hoover’s question and to many more questions which had arisen from his decades of research.

Same as Ever

Timeless lessons on risk, opportunity and living a good life

By Morgan Housel

When planning for the future we often ask, “What will the economy be doing this time next year?” Or, “What will be different ten years from now?”

But forecasting is hard. The important events that will shape the future are inherently unpredictable. Instead, we should be asking a different question:

- What will be the same ten years from now?
- What will be the same one hundred years from now?

Knowledge of the things that never change is more useful, and more important, than an uncertain prediction of an unknowable future.

In Same As Ever, bestselling author Morgan Housel shares 24 short stories about the ways that life, behaviour, and business will always be the same. Armed with this knowledge of the unchanging, you will have a powerful new ability to think about risk, opportunity, and how to navigate the uncertainty of the future.

As you see familiar themes repeat again and again in the years ahead, you’ll find yourself nodding and saying, “Yep, same as ever.”

The Behavioral Investor

By Daniel Crosby

The Behavioral Investor takes an applied look at how psychology ought to inform the art and science of investment management.

Psychologist and asset manager Dr Daniel Crosby examines the sociological, neurological and psychological factors that influence investment decisions and offers practical solutions for improving both returns and behavior.

Readers will be treated to the most comprehensive examination of investor behavior to date and will leave with concrete solutions for refining decision-making processes, increasing self-awareness and constraining the fatal flaws to which most investors are prone. Wealth, truly considered, has at least as much to do with psychological as financial wellbeing.

The Geometry of Wealth

How to shape a life of money and meaning

By Brian Portnoy

How does money figure into a happy life? Behavioral finance expert Brian Portnoy delivers an inspired answer, building on the critical distinction between being rich and being wealthy.

While one is an unsatisfying treadmill, the other is the ability to underwrite a meaningful life, however one chooses to define that. Truly viewed, wealth is funded contentment.

In this accessible and entertaining book, Portnoy reveals that true wealth is achievable for many – including those who despair it is out of reach – but only in the context of a life in which purpose and practice are thoughtfully calibrated.

The Choice Factory

25 behavioural biases that influence what we buy

By Richard Shotton

Before you can influence decisions, you need to understand what drives them. In The Choice Factory, Richard Shotton sets out to help you learn.

By observing a typical day of decision-making, from trivial food choices to significant work-place moves, he investigates how our behaviour is shaped by psychological shortcuts. With a clear focus on the marketing potential of knowing what makes us tick, Shotton has drawn on evidence from academia, real-life ad campaigns and his own original research.

Supporting his discussion, Shotton adds insights from new interviews with some of the smartest thinkers in advertising, including Rory Sutherland, Lucy Jameson and Mark Earls.
