

Molly Moon's

Hypnotic Adlibs

Georgia Byng has written another Molly Moon adlib for you to complete. There are lots of words missing from the story below. Fill in the words making sure you enter the correct type of word (for example 'noun', 'adjective', 'verb', etc.). You can complete the adlib on your own or – even better – with a friend. Just ask them to give you the words (making sure they don't see the rest of the story) for hilarious results!

Everyone stood still as frozen [noun plural] Molly stepped into the [noun] and began to [a verb] . A [adjective] [type of male person] with a [noun] on his [body part] was holding a [adjective] [noun] in his hand. Molly put it on his [body part] . A [type of person] with a [adjective] face was looking at a [type of person] who sat on the [noun] . Molly picked up a handful of [noun plural] and placed them on the [adjective] one's [body part] . Molly loved to [verb] the world. She wondered whether [the name of a female person] could do it. After all, she was a [noun] . If she could, she might [a verb] into a [noun] and steal a [noun] or a box of precious [noun plural] . But when a [adjective] person stopped the [noun] they would be able to [a verb] . Molly [verb past tense] the [noun] that hung around her [noun] and [verb past tense] .

