

All-Party Parliamentary Group on Complex Needs & Dual Diagnosis Activity during 2024

About the APPG

The All-Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) on complex needs and dual diagnosis was established in 2007 in recognition of the fact that people seeking help often have a number of over-lapping needs including problems around access to housing, social care, unemployment services, mental health provision or substance misuse support. In most cases each service is administered by separate service providers. The result is that people with multiple or complex needs fall through the gaps in service provision. Providers recognise that the best model for helping those individuals with a dual diagnosis or complex needs is through an integrated service that aims to address all of the issues they face.

Secretariat is provided by Turning Point, a large social enterprise which specialises in working with people with complex needs. The APPG has a network of nearly 300 members including the VCSE, academia, local government, the NHS, regulatory bodies and individual service users/family members. The work of the APPG is diverse and has covered issues such as mental health and the criminal justice system; looked after children and care leavers; sex workers; legal highs; veterans and joining up policy on multiple needs from the perspective of those on the frontline. The group undertakes inquiries into key topics, gathering written and oral evidence from the network and undertaking surveys of service users and professionals.

Meetings held during 2024

- In May 2024, we met to discuss current state of play regarding mental health provision for young people.
 - We heard from; Rose, who spoke about her own experiences navigating support as a young person in care as well as her current role as a Young Partner at Peer Power Youth.
 - Charly Dale, Head of Health Services at New Horizon Youth Centre spoke about the support offer at New Horizon's as well as the challenges faced within the sector.
 - Iryna Pona, Head of Youth Research, Policy and Evaluation at The Children's Society spoke about the Children at the Table coalition and the policy context surrounding support for young people with complex needs and key points leading up to the general election.
- In March 2024, the APPG held a meeting on improving support for people with coexisting mental health and substance use needs.

- Such discussion was aided by guest speakers: Heather McGinn, who spoke about her own experiences and struggles with mental health and alcohol use and detail regarding the support available.
- Hauwa Onifade, Senior Forensic Psychologist at Turning Point & Assistant Professor at University of Nottingham who shared her insight as a practitioner working within Turning Point's substance use service in Leicestershire including key challenges and practices which seek to address them.
- Dylan Kerr Policy Lead at the Department of Health and Social Care, who provided an outline of the government's upcoming Joint Action Plan, what it seeks to achieve, and how.

Reports and essays

Jane Stevenson – Chair of the APPG on Complex Needs – contributed an essay to MEAM's (Making Every Adult Matter) Future Focus essay collection on the topic of improving support for people with coexisting mental health and substance use needs, which is due to be published shortly.

The essay examined progress against the aims of the government's drug strategy, 'From Harm to Hope', which set to transform the system so that providing trauma informed care becomes the norm, and complex needs are recognised and responded to, reducing the number of people who fall through the gaps between services. In particular, the essay looked at progress on the following aims:

- Exploring opportunities for better commissioning for locally joined-up service provision between specialist mental health services and substance misuse services
- Ensuring ICS development includes leadership on drugs and alcohol to integrate physical and mental health care with substance misuse services.
- Improving access to treatment and support for adults experiencing multiple disadvantage

Government investment has enabled the substance use sector to increase the number of treatment places and to grow and develop the workforce, including practitioners with particularly expertise on supporting people with co-existing substance use and mental health issues, and we are starting to see the number of people accessing support increase which is positive; however, this process will take time. It is important that the government continues the positive work in this area, being mindful of the inevitable lag between initial investment and improvement in outcomes. It is also important that the government supports ICSs in developing local and effective joined-up provision between mental health and substance use services.

Income and Expenditure

The APPG received no income above £1,500 in this year.

The APPG Network

The APPG has a highly engaged network of nearly 300 expert members including frontline workers, VCSE organisations, academia, police, local government, the NHS, regulatory bodies and individual service users/family members. Organisations represented include:
