Working in the health and social care sectors

The health and social care sectors currently employ approximately 1 in 10 of the working population in the UK. These sectors cover a range of services across many organisations within the public, private and voluntary sectors, including hospitals, hospices, nursing, care homes and many other types of provision.

The programme's structure

Apprentices will be placed in a role over 24 months during which they will be supported while on-programme by their tutor. The tutor will review the progress of the apprentice against the standard to ensure they are prepared for the end-point assessment.

Your apprentice's journey

Ready for training

- Initial assessment
- English and maths training
- On-programme training to meet the requirements of the standard
- Gateway readiness self-assessment

Set for assessment on completion of training and functional skills

End-point assessment methods are:

Observation of practice with questions

- A 90-minute observation followed by 30-minutes for questions
- Observing the apprentice completing their normal duties in the workplace

Professional discussion underpinned by a portfolio of evidence

- A 60-minute professional discussion
- Underpinned by a portfolio of evidence, which is not assessed

Go further

After a period of working and gaining experience, apprentices may be able to work towards an assistant practitioner or nursing associate post or, providing they meet the entry requirements, apply to university to become a registered healthcare practitioner.
