

Flexible Coatings for Automotive Applications

High performance coatings to suppress noise and reduce friction

We protect and beautify the world™

Driving technology forwards

PPG continues to deliver innovative solutions to the automotive industry with the availability of PPG Resilon® waterborne coatings. Resilon coatings are designed to reduce friction, suppress noise, avoid sticking and protect against weathering for automotive sealing systems, such as trunk/boot surrounds and rubber door seals. Our extensive line of specialty coatings for rubber, plastic and other flexible substrates have advanced formulations that offer a range of benefits.

All weatherstrip and glass run coatings are backed by years of research, development and proven success in the segment, and supported by our global technical and sales experts.

Product Benefits

- Improved itch and squeak suppression resulting in low noise
- Outstanding abrasion resistance and long-term durability
- Superb haptic properties
- Controlled/low friction: 0.1 to 1.0
- Excellent heat and freeze release properties
- Excellent resistance to the elements: weathering and chemical resistance
