FROM PAN MACMILLAN

Dear Booksellers,

Thanks so much for your amazing support for Pan Macmillan titles and authors in 2023! We hope you've had a busy Christmas trading period and managed to enjoy some well-earned time off. If you're not already following us on X and Instagram our handle is @PanMacPinboard and we also have a regular email newsletter you can subscribe to by emailing pinboard@macmillan.com. We'll have additional proof and POS offers for you there so do tune in to hear more.

We have a very exciting line up coming in the first part of 2024. Fiction highlights include The Women, the fantastic new novel by Kristin Hannah, available in a signed indie exclusive edition with a purple edge – and The Antique Hunter's Guide to Murder, the first in a new series of cosy crime novels by C.L. Miller, daughter of antiques expert Judith. For historical fiction fans, we have Death on the Lusitania by R.L. Graham and Maude Horton's Glorious Revenge by Lizzie Pook. We're also excited to be publishing the wonderful debut Martyr! by Kaveh Akbar, and are delighted to welcome Percival Everett with his fabulous new novel James, available in a signed indie edition. And we have some huge paperbacks too, including Homecoming by Kate Morton, and Booker-shortlisted Western Lane by Chetna Maroo.

Our non-fiction list features Hildasay to Home by Christian Lewis, covering the second part of his incredible journey around the UK, The Green Budget Guide from Nancy Birtwhistle, and fascinating reportage from Jenny Kleeman in The Price of Life and Andrew Gold in The Psychology of Secrets. For poetry fans, the Bard of Salford, Dr John Cooper Clarke, returns with a brand new poetry collection, WHAT.

We are thrilled to be publishing Camilla Reid for the first time, with two new preschool board books coming in March and more to follow later in the year, plus our old friend The Gruffalo is celebrating his 25th birthday and we have POS to help you deck out your windows for the occasion! The one and only Alex T Smith also returns with a brand new illustrated adventure series for 5+ readers, Astrid and the Space Cadets. We have a real treat in store for older readers too – a very special children's edition of Wilding by Isabella Tree, illustrated by the amazing Angela Harding, available in a signed edition with free print. For YA fans, we have a new novel from BookTok favourite Hafsa Faizal, A Tempest of Tea, with signed exclusive endpapers. Please do get in touch for reading copies of anything that takes your fancy and any POS you would like for your bookshops. Happy Reading!

The Antique Hunter's Guide to Murder is the first book in a new cosy crime series with a twist – think The No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency meets The Thursday Murder Club. The series will see Freya and her Aunt Carole hunt antiques around the world, solving clues left by their mutual friend and antiques dealer Arthur Crockleford, now deceased in extremely suspicious circumstances.

We are producing some fantastic POS materials for The Antique Hunter's Guide to Murder and will be offering a competition prize for the six best windows across the country! Please send us a photo of your window display to pinboard@macmillan.com or tag us on X/Twitter @PanMacPinboard. The deadline for entries is 22nd March 2024 – we look forward to seeing yours!

Dear Bookseller,

Firstly, thank you so much for all you do to champion books and authors. I'm thrilled to introduce my debut, The Antique Hunter's Guide to Murder which tells the story of Freya Lockwood and her wonderfully eccentric Aunt Carole as they hunt not only for a killer but for stolen antiques and antiquities through the Suffolk countryside.

I grew up in the antiques world as my parents published The Miller's Antiques Price Guide and my mother, Judith Miller was an expert on the Antiques Roadshow and she consulted on this series. I now live in Constable country – Dedham Vale, Suffolk and the sleepy mediaeval villages here seemed a perfect backdrop for the darker deeds in the book.

The Antique Hunter's Guide to Murder is a culmination of all I love and all I know. My love for murder mystery started as a child reading Enid Blyton's Secret Seven and Famous Five series and then onto Agatha Christie and Arthur Conan Doyle. Antiques filled my childhood home and I have always written – starting with some truly terrible poetry! The publication of my debut has made so many dreams come true. I do hope you enjoy Freya and Aunt Carole's sleuthing fun and I look forward to visiting you all soon.

With very best wishes,

Cara (C.L. Miller)

Pan Mac
Team Pick

'Patric Gagne's Sociopath: A Memoir is a truly gripping read that challenges traditional perceptions of sociopathy. Patric's unique perspective makes it unlike anything else I've read'

Sociopath: A Memoir is at once a mesmerising tale of a life lived on the edge of the law, a redemptive love story and a moving account of one woman's battle to create a place for herself and the 5% of the population who are also – like her – sociopaths. This is an utterly compelling, drily funny, and, at times, jaw-dropping account of Patric Gagne's life.

We're really excited about Sociopath: A Memoir and we think it's perfect for readers of I'm Glad My Mom Died, Educated and Jon Ronson's The Psychopath Test, but it will also appeal to fans of true crime books, TV and podcasts. It's the book that novel-readers who pick up just one or two non-fiction titles a year will be clamouring for.

Read on for a short extract below – we have proofs available if you'd like to read more.

"Your friends would probably describe me
as nice.

BUT GUESS
WHAT?

I can't stand
your friends.

I'm a liar. I'm a thief. I'm highly manipulative.

I don't care what people think.

I'M CAPABLE OF ALMOST ANYTHING"

I am a passionate mother and wife. I am an engaging therapist. I am extremely charming and well-liked. I have lots of friends. I am a member of a country club. I throw parties for every occasion you can imagine. I live in a nice house. I am a writer. I like to cook. I vote. I make people laugh. I have a dog and a cat, and I wait in carpool lines next to other women with dogs and cats.

On the surface I resemble almost every other average American woman. Social media confirms my existence as a happy mommy and loving partner whose posts are borderline narcissistic. Your friends would probably describe me as nice. But guess what?

I can't stand your friends.

I'm a liar. I'm a thief. I'm emotionally shallow. I'm mostly immune to remorse and guilt. I'm highly manipulative. I don't care what other people think. I'm not interested in morals. I'm not interested, period. Rules do not factor into my decision making. I'm capable of doing almost anything.

Sound familiar?

If you picked up this book, I'm willing to bet it might. You, too, could be one of the estimated thirty million people in America believed to be sociopaths. Or you could know one of the millions more whose personalities are thought to reside on the sociopathic spectrum. And we're not talking strictly criminals. Doctors, lawyers, teachers, mail carriers . . .

Sociopaths are hiding everywhere, in plain sight. All you need to do is start looking.

THE PRICE OF LIFE

9781035004966

HB | £16.99 | 14.03.24 | Picador

RC

$2-3,000 to save the life of a child in Africa.

£15,180 to hire a hitman.

$368,901 to pay the average ransom demand.

Journalist, broadcaster and documentary-maker Jenny Kleeman takes us on an adventure in The Price of Life to meet some of the people who decide what we're worth.

In a series of extraordinary encounters – with people who have faked their own death or lost a loved one to terrorism, with hitmen and with modern-day slaves – she discovers more questions than answers. What does it mean for our humanity when we crunch the numbers to decide who gets the expensive life-saving drugs, and who misses out? What do we learn about ourselves when philanthropic giving by the effective altruists in Silicon Valley is received by some, while others are left to suffer? Are some lives really worth more than others? And what happens when we take human emotions out of the equation? Does it make for a fairer decision-making process – or for moral bankruptcy?

‘There are numbers on your head. They have been there since before you were born. They will change over the course of your life, depending on who you happen to be and what happens to you. You will die, but the numbers will remain, sometimes for years after you’re gone. Your life will depend on them. They will determine what you are worth, and whether your life is worth saving’

Jenny Kleeman, The Price of Life

We all keep secrets. 97% of us are hiding a secret right now, and on average we each hold thirteen at any one time.

There’s a one-in-two chance that those secrets involve a breach of trust, a lie or a financial impropriety. They are the stuff of gossip, of novels and of classic dramas; secrets form a major part of our inner lives, even though the energy expended in keeping them hidden is almost certainly harmful to our mental health.

Podcaster Andrew Gold (On The Edge – 30k listeners each week), knows this better than anyone. A public persona, he found himself the (unwitting) recipient of hundreds of strangers’ most private revelations, all unsolicited. A journalist at heart, this set him on a journey to understand this critical – yet rarely analysed – part of our societies and lives. Why do we keep secrets? Why are we fascinated by those of others?

Featuring a fascinating array of interviews, ranging from the Coffin Confessor – who is paid $10,000 at a time to reveal the deceased’s secrets at their funerals – to the world’s first blogger, who publicly posted about everything (including his infected penis) and a remarkably detailed account of a physical fight with Kurt Vonnegut, The Psychology of Secrets is a unique journey through the history of secrecy, bringing us in touch with cult leaders, murderers, psychopaths – and even you.

We are incredibly excited that the Booker Prize shortlisted author of The Trees, Percival Everett, has joined the Mantle and Picador lists.

We're pleased to share here a note from Percival's publisher, Maria Rejt, which introduces his new novel, James, perfectly. There will be an Indie Exclusive Edition available for you, with a blue sprayed edge and signed endpapers.

'You may have read Percival Everett's most recent novel, Dr. No, and the Booker Prize-shortlisted The Trees and I hope you will agree that James will cement Percival Everett's reputation as one of the most extraordinary literary voices of our time. James is a brilliant, intensely moving and – at times – ferociously funny reimagining of Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, told from the perspective of the enslaved Jim. His story is heartbreaking but so very courageous. His voice is humble and steadfast, dignified and poignant. And his world is one we never forget once we have experienced it through Percival Everett's electrifying prose. We feel very proud to be Percival Everett's new publisher here in the UK, and I do so hope you will enjoy reading James and feel as passionate about it as we all do at Mantle and Picador.

With my thanks and best wishes . . . '

THE MASTER

9781035029860 | PB | £9.99 | 04.04.24 | Picador

Shortlisted for the Man Booker Prize 2004, this is Colm Tóibín's remarkable novel about Henry James, the American-born novelist and a connoisseur of exile. It joins the Picador Collection a month ahead of the publication of Long Island.

BURIAL RITES

9781035038626 | PB | £9.99 | 07.03.24 | Picador

Inspired by a true story, Hannah Kent's Burial Rites follows the final days of a young woman accused of murder in 1820s Iceland. It is an astonishing novel about the truths we claim to know and the ways in which we interpret what we're told.

FEMININE GOSPELS

9781035038565 | PB | £10.99 | 08.02.24 | Picador

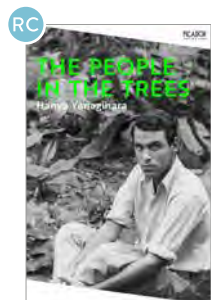

Former Poet Laureate Carol Ann Duffy's dazzling sixth collection that draws on the historical, the archetypal, the biblical and the fantastical to create visions, and revisions, of female identity. These are poems to challenge and entertain.

STORIES OF YOUR LIFE AND OTHERS

9781035038596 | PB | £9.99 | 07.03.24 | Picador

The first short story collection by the multiple-award-winning author, Ted Chiang. Stories of Your Life and Others deftly blends human emotion and scientific rationalism in eight remarkably diverse stories.

THE PEOPLE IN THE TREES

9781035038527 | PB | £10.99 | 11.01.24 | Picador

The brilliant first novel by the author of the internationally bestselling phenomenon A Little Life. It is a highly topical fictional exploration of abuses of power from the personal and sexual to the colonial, racial and political.

INTO THIN AIR

9781035038558 | PB | £10.99 | 11.01.24 | Picador

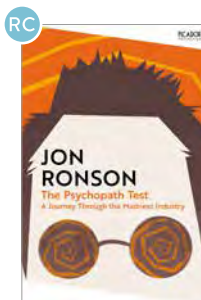

From Jon Krakauer, bestselling author of Into the Wild. Into Thin Air is an acclaimed true account of a 24-hour period on Everest, when three separate expeditions were caught in a storm which ended in the worst single-season death toll.

ESSAYS IN LOVE

9781035038589 | PB | £10.99 | 08.02.24 | Picador

The classic book on love by the bestselling author of How Proust Can Change Your Life and The Consolations of Philosophy. With the verve of a novelist and the insight of a philosopher, Alain de Botton uncovers the mysteries of the human heart.

THE PSYCHOPATH TEST

9781035038510 | PB | £10.99 | 11.01.24 | Picador

Jon Ronson's screamingly funny and deeply disturbing classic exploration of psychopathy. This is a fascinating journey through the minds of madness and remains as cutting edge today as when it was first published in 2011.

Tom Clancy

'Mysterious, beautiful and unbelievably assured. This is one of our big debuts for the year and one to get really excited about!'

I was born on the island on 20th January 1920. My birth certificate read 30th January 1920, because my father could not get to the registration office on the mainland before then. There was a great winter storm and no one could leave the island. When we were finally able to cross, my mother used to tell me, the beach was covered in jellyfish, like a silver path of ice. My mother survived the birth, thank Jesus, because no one could have come to help her.

The island was three miles long and one mile wide, with a lighthouse marking the eastern point and a dark cave marking the west. There were twelve families, the minister, and Polish Lukasz who worked in the lighthouse.

Our house, Rose Cottage, was set into the side of a hill, where the wind wrapped a fist around it. Tad said the army should have made tanks out of our windows, the way they stood against the weather. The glass had warped and splintered in places but still held fast to the frame. In the bedroom, at night, you could hear our neighbours' goats calling out to their young through a crack in the pane, and sometimes you could see a candle in their house burning like a coin balanced on the top of the hill.

Men and women gathered outside the chapel. Someone had brought a newspaper, put it up against a wall for others to read. Something happening in another country.

Violent nights. Another war? someone asked. God forbid, replied another. We had heard this kind of talk since spring: prices on the mainland steadily creeping up, invasion, arms. Snatches of news soon replaced by some other worry, an infection passing through the sheep, a crack in a wall, dogs left roaming in someone else's field. But it felt as though something was circling us, waiting to land against the shore.

Behind the crowd, a group of cows stood watching, moving cud around their mouths. I pulled my woollen coat around me. The wind blew in the smell of rot from the whale. I reached out my hand to stroke one of the cow's noses, but they turned away lazily, as if no one was there.

Twenty-year-old nursing student, Frances 'Frankie' McGrath, has been raised on California's idyllic Coronado Island and sheltered by her conservative parents, she has always prided herself on doing the right thing. But in 1965 the world is changing, and she suddenly imagines a different path for her life. When her brother ships out to serve in Vietnam, she impulsively joins the Army Nurses Corps and follows his path.

As green and inexperienced as the young men sent to Vietnam to fight, Frankie is overwhelmed by the chaos and destruction of war, as well as the unexpected trauma of coming home to a changed America. But through heartbreak and trauma, Frankie will also discover the true value of female friendship.

A novel of searing insight, with compelling characters and a vividly drawn setting, The Women is a must-read, empowering female-led story by one of the world's most celebrated storytellers. We will have a beautiful signed Indie Exclusive edition available for you, with designed endpapers and a purple sprayed edge.

DEATH ON THE LUSITANIA

9781035021918 | HB | £16.99 | 25.01.24 | Macmillan

Welcome on board the Lusitania's final voyage . . . An atmospheric and immersive Agatha Christie-style historical crime fiction retelling of the sinking of the RMS Lusitania as it sailed from New York to Liverpool.

New York, 1915. RMS Lusitania, one of the world's most luxurious ocean liners, departs for war-torn Europe. Among those on board is Patrick Gallagher, a civil servant in Her Majesty's government tasked with escorting a British diplomat back to England.

When a fellow passenger is believed to have shot himself in his cabin, Gallagher is asked by the captain to investigate the scene but one crucial detail doesn't fit. The man's body was discovered in a locked cabin with the key inside and no gun to be found. Was it really suicide? Or murder? Gallagher believes one of the passengers is a deadly killer who could strike again to protect their true reasons for being on board. And all the while, the ship sails on towards Europe, where deadly submarines patrol dark waters . . .

This is the first book in a new, meticulously researched historical crime series from R. F. Graham that will feature significant events from the early 20th century. We can't wait to share this one with you – and we'll have a standee available to support publication.

MAUDE HORTON'S GLORIOUS REVENGE

9781529072891 | HB | £16.99 | 01.02.24 | Picador

From Lizzie Pook, author of Moonlight and the Pearler's Daughter, comes an exciting and pacey story of a quest for justice in the macabre world of Victorian London, with an intrepid heroine ready to risk it all for her missing sister.

London, 1850. Maude Horton knows something isn't right. Her sister Constance embarked on a reckless adventure, running away from the room she shared with Maude, disguising herself as a boy on board a ship going to the Arctic, and then never came home. 'A tragic accident', they said, but it's just not adding up.

When Constance's hidden journal is slipped to Maude, it becomes clear that Constance had kept many secrets from her sister. Between why she had to get away from London in the first place and then getting caught up in the schemes of devious and powerful men on board, did Maude know her at all?

It's up to Maude to find out what really happened and get justice for her brave, but often unwise, sister. But there are strong forces determined to keep the truth from the light and she'll need some of Constance's courage to face them.

Keep reading for a note from Gaby Morgan, the editor of Wilding, about working on this beautiful book:

'I am a huge admirer of Isabella and Charlie and their inspiring and revolutionary rewilding experiment at Knepp and loved the original book. It has been the greatest joy to work with Isabella to reimagine the book in this fully illustrated format.'

I knew that Angela Harding would be the perfect illustrator for the project – her art has an emotional pull and narrative quality which chimes perfectly with the story of Knepp. It has been such a pleasure to work with her, and her artist's view, based on a number of seasonal stays at Knepp, is stunning. What a beautiful and necessary book for a generation facing unprecedented environmental challenges.'

Beautifully fusing memoir and cultural history, Dead Weight is an essential exploration of disordered eating in the internet era. Exploring her own experience from when she was just twelve and those of famous figures from across time and popular culture, Emmeline Clein traces the medical and cultural history of anorexia, bulimia, orthorexia and binge eating disorder.

Challenging the accepted narratives women absorb every day about themselves and aiming to galvanise readers against disordered eating, this is an essential, much needed read imagining a world where we allow ourselves to listen to our appetites and fight back against these diseases of self-destruction.

HERESY

9781529040357

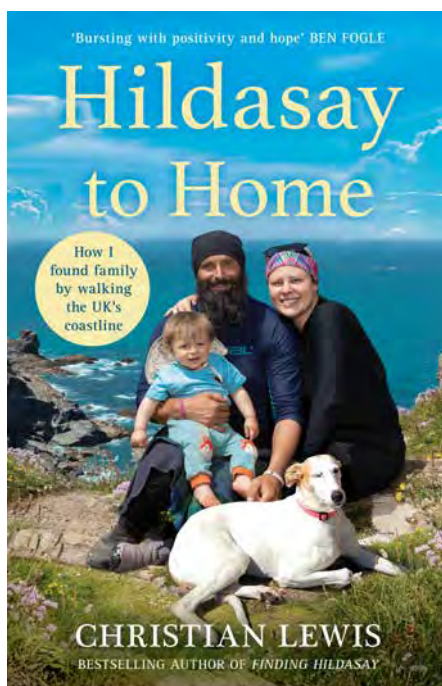

HB | £25.00 | 07.03.24 | Picador

From the author of The Darkening Age, Catherine Nixey's provocative new book examines the many Christs who existed before the Church Fathers settled on the Christ we know today.

In early Christian traditions, there were many Jesuses who were each saviours, sons of gods and who healed the sick and cured the lame.

From the aggressive Jesus who scorned his parents and crippled those who opposed him, to the Jesus who sold his twin into slavery and the Jesus who had someone crucified in his stead, there was not just one Christ. But as Christianity spread, they were pronounced unacceptable – even heretical – by the Church and they faded from view.

Now, in Heresy: Jesus Christ and the Other Sons of God, Catherine Nixey tells their extraordinary story, one of contingency, chance and plurality; the story about what might have been.

HILDASAY TO HOME

9781035033782

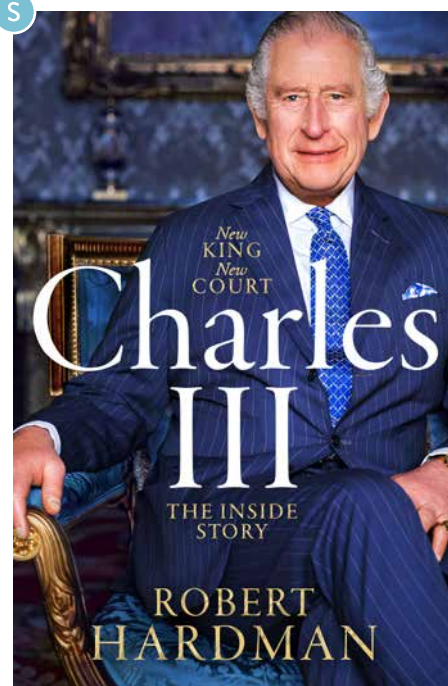

HB | £20.00 | 28.03.24 | Macmillan

Walking saved his life. Now it will help find him a family.

Sunday Times bestselling author Christian Lewis meets the love of his life and starts the real adventure of a lifetime as he builds a family and finishes his epic walk.

Following on from his time on Hildasay, Christian's adventure has only gotten wilder as he has an unlikely (seemingly destined) encounter with fellow adventurer Kate. After joining him on his walk of a lifetime, their relationship grew and soon baby Magnus arrived. Facing injuries, mental health struggles, and multiple setbacks, the adventurous family of four had to find their feet and come together to complete this epic challenge. Having navigated the east coast of Scotland, through Yorkshire and East Anglia, to the Jurassic Coast, and with the home stretch to Wales in sight and almost half a million pounds raised, Christian reflects on all that he's learned and the family he's found along the way.

CHARLES III

9781035027415

HB | £22.00 | 18.01.24 | Macmillan

Charles III: New King. New Court. The Inside Story is a celebration of King Charles's first year by royal expert and bestselling author Robert Hardman.

With unrivalled access to the Royal Family, friends of the King and Queen, key officials and courtiers plus unpublished royal papers, Hardman has produced a brilliant account of a tumultuous period in British history.

Detailing Charles III's make or break first year on the throne, from the emotionally-charged days following the death of the late Queen to political upheavals and damning headlines, and of course the Coronation. This is a fascinating portrait of a hard-working, modern monarch, determined to remain true to himself and to his Queen, to make a difference, to weather the storms – and, what's more, to enjoy it. We will have signed copies available so make sure to order for your shops before they run out!

'I can't remember the last time a book made me feel like this . . . Extraordinary'

Clint Smith, author of How the Word is Passed

The debut novel from prize-winning poet Kaveh Akbar. Electrifying, funny, and wholly original, Martyr! heralds the arrival of a blazing and essential new voice in contemporary fiction.

Cyrus Shams is lost. Ever since his mother's plane was senselessly shot down over the Persian Gulf when he was just a baby, Cyrus has been grappling with her death. Now, newly sober, he is set to learn the truth of her life.

When an encounter with a dying artist leads Cyrus towards the mysteries of his past – an uncle who rode through Iranian battlefields dressed as an Angel of Death, a haunting work of art by an exiled painter – he finds himself once again caught up in the story of his mother, who may not have been who or what she seemed. As Cyrus searches for meaning in the scattered clues of his life, a final revelation transforms everything he thought he knew.

WHAT

S 9781035033164 | S Format HB | £16.99 | 08.02.24 | Picador

The inimitable Bard of Salford and national treasure, John Cooper Clarke, is back with an uproarious new collection, reminding us why he is one of Britain's most beloved writers and performers. From James Brown to John F. Kennedy to Jesus Christ, nobody is safe from the punk rocker's acerbic pen in this anthology.

Hot on the heels of The Luckiest Guy Alive and his sprawling, encyclopaedic memoir I Wanna Be Yours, the original 'People's Poet' returns with his most trenchant compilation of poems yet.

Vivid and alive, with a sensitivity only a writer with a life as varied and extraordinary as Cooper Clarke's could summon, WHAT is an exceptional collection from one of our foremost satirists.

Following his 34-stop 2023 tour across the US and Canada, WHAT is publishing ahead of the start of his 12-stop 2024 UK tour which celebrates his 75th year!

We will have a limited number of signed copies available that will make the perfect present for any John Cooper Clarke superfan.

MAY DAY

9781509864836 | S Format PB | £10.99 | 25.04.24 | Picador

May Day is the long-awaited new collection from one of Britain's best-loved poets and former Makar of Scotland, Jackie Kay.

Kay casts an eye over several decades of political activism, from growing up in Glasgow and accompanying her parents on Socialist campaigns, through the feminist, LGBTQ+ and anti-racist movements of the 80s and 90s, up to the present day when a global pandemic intersects with the urgency of Black Lives Matter.

Bringing to life a cast of influential figures and adding personal poems of grief at the loss of her parents, this is a beautiful collection that remains infused with love and celebration.
