Macmillan Children’s Books

Dear Zoo
by Rod Campbell

Celebrating 40 years

Rights Guide Spring 2022
Dear friends

It makes such a difference to be writing this introduction to our Spring Rights Guide knowing that we will be seeing some of you in person at this year’s Bologna Book Fair. It has been a long time since we were able to celebrate books together and we can’t wait. For those of you we are seeing virtually, we feel grateful that we are able to work together in online meetings and we look forward to seeing you on our sales trips soon.

We are living in turbulent times and as a children’s publisher we are acutely aware of the impact that world events are having on our children. Our ambition is to publish books with compelling stories for all children to enjoy and engage with, especially those who don’t have easy access to books and for whom reading for pleasure isn’t something that features in their lives.

Last year, we donated more than 215,000 books to disadvantaged children and for many of them this was the first book they had ever owned themselves. Much of this was made possible by our partnership with Marcus Rashford and the Book Club that we launched last year and we are very proud to be presenting new books from him here: You Can Do It is his new non fiction title and The Breakfast Club Adventures is his debut middle grade fiction. Both books are guaranteed to be hugely popular with young readers.

We want to thank you for the support you continue to give us and our publishing. Among the most recent successes are Tales from Acorn Wood by Julia Donaldson and Axel Scheffler, which will soon have eight titles in the series and has 23 translations. We are celebrating the fortieth anniversary of Dear Zoo by Rod Campbell this year and have recently welcomed another five new publishers to the brand.

Our fiction list has grown with collectable series and strong stand alone novels; Adventures on Trains by M.G Leonard and Sam Sedgman is available in eleven languages and Rob Biddulph’s Peanut Jones has been incredibly successful from publication with eighteen languages confirmed. The Boy with Wings by Lenny Henry was a huge success in 2021 and was the #2 bestselling debut children’s hardback title in the UK. We are presenting his second title at the Fair and look forward to announcing major deals on his fiction soon.

Alex T. Smith has fast established himself as the author and illustrator best placed to help us celebrate Christmas. How Winston Delivered Christmas has been optioned for a major animation and we added four new languages in 2021, taking the total to fourteen. In his new book, The Grumpus, he gives us a great new character who really isn’t sure that Christmas is for him and needs some persuasion from the friends he meets along the way.

Lucinda Riley and Harry Whittaker’s Guardian Angels stories, illustrated by Jane Ray, are also titles to look out for. With seven translations confirmed, these are important stories for our time as they address anxiety and offer comfort to young children as they go about their daily lives.

Thank you for being our brilliant publishing partners and working alongside us to put great books and stories into the hands of children around the world. We wish you all a good and successful year ahead.

With all best wishes

Belinda Ioni Rasmussen
We have a wealth of new titles for babies and toddlers in this year’s guide. Our trademark is learning through fun and interaction, and with our hide-and-seek and search-and-find formats, young readers can enjoy discovering stories and pictures for themselves.

Our best-selling Big Steps series for toddlers has grown to 12 books, helping parents and carers to prepare children for new experiences. But, if what everyone needs right now is a joyful moment sharing books, then our new title Babies Laugh at Everything is perfect.

Gentle learning and having fun are also key to our books specially aimed at preschoolers this year. My First Book of Everything by Ben Newman is a brilliant new twist on first words while Chameleon’s Favourite Colour by Carly Gledhill presents first colours with a fun character-filled story and interactive die-cut pages. I Love Me!, written by Marvyn Harrison and illustrated by Diane Ewen, is a unique book of affirmations that builds confidence in young children as they step out into the wider world.

For the perfect sharing experience, Cars Cars Cars! by Donna David and Nina Pirhonen and This Little Monster by Coral Byers and Alberta Torres have lively narratives and plenty to spot and giggle about.

My First BODY BOOK

Keep moving
Most of your muscles are attached to bones.
Muscles help to move your bones in lots of different ways.

1. Can you jump in the air?
2. Can you sit on the ground?
3. Can you stand on one foot?
4. Can you dance around?
5. What do you like doing to keep on the move?

How to be healthy
All these things can help you stay healthy.

Drink plenty of water

Eat fruit and vegetables

Diet enough sleep

Take some exercise

Moving around keeps us healthy.
What else can we do to look after our bodies?

What things do you do to stay healthy?

Have you heard about The Grumpus?
And his Dastardly, Dreadful Christmas Plan?
No, I don’t suppose you have, until now, because there is only one Grumpus in the whole world.
The Grumpus is a big, grumblly, huffy-puffy, grumpy grump of a creature who doesn’t like anybody. Or anything. AT ALL.
And the one thing he REALLY doesn’t like, above all else, is Christmas.
So let me tell you about The Grumpus’s wicked plan, and how his adventure to the North Pole didn’t turn out to be at all as he planned . . .
Join Winston the mouse as he sets out on another irresistible Christmas adventure! It is five days until Christmas and Winston has a Very Curious Mystery to solve, so he sets out on an exciting round-the-world adventure to find a missing mouse, helped along the way by wonderful old friends and delightful new ones, too.

★ The eagerly awaited sequel to How Winston Delivered Christmas, which has already established itself as a Christmas classic that families return to year after year

★ Being made into an animated film by Kelebek Media, with Rob Minkoff (The Lion King, Stuart Little) on board to direct

★ Told in 24-and-a-half-chapters, this is the perfect story to enjoy in the lead up to Christmas, and each chapter has it’s very own festive activity for the family to make-and-do-together

Special Mention
Bologna Raggazzi Awards 2020, Non Fiction
Our specialist non-fiction list aims to help children better understand the world around them. We present facts and information in a fun and engaging way, using a strong illustrative approach that supports learning.

In this guide we are launching a striking new series that focuses on environmental issues faced around the world. The series starts with An Arctic Story, written by Jane Burnard and illustrated by Kendra Binney.

Every scientific question you can think of is addressed in our second new series: The Spectacular Science Of..., written by various expert science authors and illustrated by Tim Hutchinson. Each title takes an in-depth look at a specific subject and together the books will make the perfect collection for any child’s home library.

Books on everyday themes are essential in helping young people learn key life skills, and All Things Money is just one of these books. It is an essential guide to understanding how money and finance works, backed up with real-life case studies. And for learning about other experiences, This is Our World: Celebrate with Us! is a beautifully illustrated collection of customs and religions that brings festivals, food and history to life and celebrates the rich cultural diversity of our world.
The first title in a timely new environmental series that will build to 6-8 titles

A stunningly packaged picture book-style home reference book that appeals to children, parents, schools and libraries alike

Future titles will explore these habitats: the ocean, rainforests, savannah, rivers, deserts and forests
• The first title in a lavish new gift series, with 5 pop-up diorama scenes in each book
• Spanning millions of years across the Triassic, Jurassic and Cretaceous, discover the epic story of the dinosaurs with each pop-up bringing to life the creatures of each distinct period
• Each pop-up is accompanied by a spotter’s guide and a follow-up spread containing further information
• High interest topics and eye-catching pop-ups are perfect for reluctant readers
An essential introduction to all things money, helping children develop good money sense

- Fun, friendly characters help children gain an understanding of money matters such as spending, saving, creating a budget and more, guiding them on their journey to be financially literate

- Maths expert Lou Abercrombie’s gentle text breaks these tricky concepts down into manageable nuggets of information

- Real-world case studies and everyday situations allow children to explore the good and the bad effects money can have
SPECTACULAR SCIENCE
Illustrated by Tim Hutchinson

- A highly accessible, fully illustrated, multi-title series for children (and parents!) who want to understand how our planet, the solar system and even the Universe works!

- Each book covers a unique topic in magnificent depth, but can also be combined with the other books in the series to create an overarching visual science encyclopedia of several hundred pages in length.

- Extremely visual, each spread is illustrated with a full-spread scene or multiple smaller images, creating an inviting, accessible design that will encourage science-hungry children to pore over every detail and truly get to grips with the science that underpins our everyday lives and activities.
This is Our World: Celebrate With Us!

By Tracey Turner, Illustrated by Åsa Gilland

- A vibrant and colourful celebration of our planet’s cultural diversity, bringing the unique people, customs and religions of twenty places from around the world vividly to life.

- Journeying around the globe, children will explore celebrations such as Eid al-Fitr in the UK, the Hanami cherry blossom festival in Japan, Jewish Holy Days in New York and the Day of the Dead in Mexico through warm, evocative illustrations and richly detailed text.

- Instantly relatable – our guide to each festival is a child character who talks about their festival’s history, customs, food and costume with humour and warmth.

Fiction and Non Fiction

You Are a Champion by Marcus Rashford, written with Carl Anka, has been a huge success and we are delighted to be following this up with You Can Do It: How to Find Your Team and Make a Difference. This companion title is a practical guide to showing readers that their voices matter and can have impact in today’s world.

We are also showcasing Marcus Rashford’s first middle grade fiction title. Written with Alex Falase-Koya, The Breakfast Club Adventures is a very funny story inspired by Marcus’ own school days and is fully illustrated by Marta Kissi.

Illustration remains a focus for us as it keeps accessibility central to reading for pleasure. Rob Biddulph’s Peanut Jones and the Twelve Portals is a second exciting adventure with a focus on the importance of creativity, while Lenny Henry’s The Boy with Wings is a rip-roaring story with illustrations throughout by Keenon Ferrell.

Some of our favourite and longstanding Macmillan authors have new stories to tell, from Elizabeth Laird to Frances Hardinge, and their novels sit alongside new treasures to discover by Sue Divin and Radiya Hafiza. Whatever your taste, there is a great novel here for you.
There’s something fishy going on at school . . .

When twelve-year-old Marcus kicks his favourite football over the school fence, he knows he’s never getting it back. Nothing that goes over that wall ever comes back.

But when Marcus gets a mysterious note inviting him to join the Breakfast Club Investigators, he is soon pulled into an exciting adventure with his new friends to solve the mystery and get his football back!

- Marcus’s inspirational children’s book You Are a Champion debuted at number 1 in the children’s charts and number 3 in the overall chart, selling over 220k copies through UK TCM since its publication in May.
- Inspired by Marcus’s own experiences growing up - we are committed to building Marcus as the authentic voice looking to inspire real and positive change in children through books.
- Marcus will be promoting the book through his hugely influential social media channels - 10 million followers on Instagram, 4.1 million followers on Twitter
- Dynamic setting and illustrations to make the book as visually engaging as possible - perfect for reluctant readers.
A funny, big-hearted story about the power of hope and imagination when you believe in the impossible.

✓ AN IMPOSSIBLE MISSION TO SAVE THE WORLD FROM A FUR-OUSIOUS ENEMY? CHECK.

When Tunde sprouts wings and learns he’s all that stands between Earth and total destruction, suddenly school is the least of his problems. Luckily, his rag-tag group of pals have got his back, and with his new powers, Tunde is ready to fly in the face of danger.

So what if he can’t even stand up to the school bully? He’s the boy with wings – this is his destiny. No pressure then. . .

• Sir Lenny Henry has risen from being a star on children’s television to becoming one of Britain’s best known comedians, as well as a writer, philanthropist and award-winning actor. He is co-founder of Comic Relief. Lenny is a strong advocate for diversity and co-wrote the book Access All Areas: The Diversity Manifesto for TV and Beyond. The Boy with Wings is his first novel for Macmillan Children’s Books.

• Keenon Ferrell is an illustrator and animator based in NYC. He makes artwork inspired by music, fashion and sports. He also has a love for storytelling, fantasy and history which can be seen throughout his work. Keenon’s clients include Netflix, Capital One, StoryCorps, Sony Music Entertainment, to name a few.

• Mark Buckingham has been creating comics for thirty-five years, building a reputation for design, storytelling and a chameleon-like diversity of art styles. He is best known as the regular artist on Bill Willingham’s multiple award-winning Fables series and for his work with Neil Gaiman on Miracleman, Sandman and Death. He previously collaborated with Lenny Henry on his memoir Who Am I, Again?

• British comedy legend, with the perfect tone for middle grade funny fiction

Coming Soon:
A new picture book series by Lenny Henry!
Inspired by award-winning author Elizabeth Laird’s own childhood growing up in post-war London, The Misunderstandings of Charity Brown is a warm, witty and beautiful coming-of-age story, perfect for fans of The Skylarks’ War and I Capture the Castle.

Charity Brown’s life is about to change – her family have been left a huge, rambling house by a mysterious benefactor, and her parents want to move in and throw open its doors to those in need.

Charity is only recently back from hospital after months of isolation with polio, and her family are very religious, so she’s both excited and nervous at the thought of sharing her new home with strangers.

It’s a recipe for confusion, joy and endless misunderstandings, including with the new neighbours, an Austrian family with a daughter just Charity’s age . . .

- Elizabeth Laird’s titles have sold over 150k through UK TCM - this is her best novel yet to publish in HB for prestige and prize potential
- Aimed at an audience of 11+ with cross market appeal, including adult fans of Hilary McKay and Eva Ibbotson
- Authentic autobiographical experience, with key themes of empathy, understanding and making connections with others, as well as a child developing a mind of her own
Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who’s the fiercest one of all?

Ever since she escaped her tower, Rumaysa has been searching the land, far and wide, determined to find her long lost parents. But after she receives a mysterious invitation from Saira White, Queen of Bishnara, she is soon pulled into a dark, magical adventure, that threatens her own happily ever after . . .

This eagerly anticipated sequel to Rumaysa: A Fairytale enchantingly intertwines traditional stories of Princesses, Princes, Witches and Beasts with a fresh and empowering perspective.

• The sequel to Radiya’s debut novel Rumaysa, which was chosen as Waterstones book of the month
• Rumaysa is feminist, South Asian, muslim and kick-ass, bringing a unique perspective to classic stories and showing young readers of colour that fairy tale tropes can have cultural takeaways for all
• Clear concept and hook, lyrical writing that is reminiscent of Sophie Anderson coupled with the trailblazing content of Rebel Girls.
One thing is for certain . . . everything’s changing.

Rosie Caron is ready for her life to begin, because nothing says new life like going to university.

Except university turns out to be nothing like what she imagined. She doesn’t like her course much. Or her flatmates. Or, really . . . anything?

And then she meets Jade, and everything starts to look a little brighter. But is first love enough when everything else is falling apart?

- Sara’s novels have sold over 90,000 copies in the UK
- Sara’s fourth novel Goodbye, Perfect was the winner of the 2019 YA Book Prize
- Sara is an expert at handling sensitive topics for a teenage audience in an engaging way. This book deals with reality vs expectations of the university experience, how to deal with being unhappy in a cultural experience where you’re meant to be happy, dropping out of university as a positive thing.
- Bisexual narrator, sapphic love story, but not a coming out narrative
WHAT IF FINDING OUT WHO YOU TRULY ARE MEANS UNDERMINING EVERYTHING YOU’VE EVER KNOWN? THE GRIPPING NEW YA NOVEL FROM THE ACCLAIMED AUTHOR OF GUARD YOUR HEART.

Tara is from Derry, Faith is from Armagh; their lives are very different, but they look exactly the same - they just don’t know why...

Two teens from very different backgrounds - Tara, the Catholic daughter of a two generation single parent family, and Faith, the daughter of strict Evangelical Protestants from Armagh, come face to face at a residential and discover they look almost identical. A DNA test reveals they are related, and that Faith’s father is not who she thinks - while Tara has never known hers. Between them, they set out to unravel the mystery of their shared parentage, but in doing so set in motion a series of revelations about the pasts of both their families. Meanwhile, they are also dealing separately with their own issues - Tara angry and grieving after the sudden death of her boyfriend Oran, and Faith hiding her true sexuality from her family for fear of being disowned.

• High quality writing with prize, review and crossover potential.

• A compelling family mystery set in contemporary Northern Ireland, but spanning the lives of three generations of women as two teens discover they are related and need to uncover the truth about their history.

• Topical and political, from an author who is highly qualified to talk on the subject. Story is set in Northern Ireland 2019, during a period when there was no devolved government and legislation around abortion rights and LGBTQ+ rights were direct legislated from London and very controversial and divisive.
Sometimes the monsters take us. Sometimes we become the monsters.

Mirabelle has always known she is a monster. When the glamour protecting her unusual family from the human world ruptures, they discover who the real monsters are.

A thought-provoking, chilling and critically-acclaimed duology, Pádraig Kenny’s The Monsters of Rookhaven and The Shadows of Rookhaven, both stunningly illustrated by Edward Bettison, explore difference and empathy through the eyes of characters you won’t want to let go of.

‘A magnificent, shadowy, gothic adventure full of heart’ Emma Carroll, author of Frost Hollow Hall

‘A stunning book . . . a brand new take on the monster story’ Eoin Colfer
