WELCOME

FROM JO COATES, INTERIM CEO, ENGLAND HOCKEY

England Hockey is pleased to offer a very big welcome to our home stage of the FIH Hockey Pro League for 2024-25, featuring another exciting series of international hockey matches here at our home of hockey – Lee Valley Hockey and Tennis Centre, London.

It is the first major tournament since I joined England Hockey and like you I hope, I am excited to see our teams in action in front of a home crowd as we host some of the best nations in the world including the current Men's Olympic champions Netherlands, our Antipodean rivals Australia – both men and women – the exciting Argentina and India women and fellow European teams Germany men and Spain women.

For ourselves and our European counterparts, these matches and the further FIH Hockey Pro League games this month, play an important part in our preparations for the European Championships in Mönchengladbach in August – and qualification for next season's World Cup.

The new look format of the FIH Hockey Pro League means we are hosting mini tournaments featuring 16 matches in a busy 9-day period. We are delighted that all of the weekend dates for the event are sold out. We do not take this support for granted.

Our teams are incredibly grateful for your support, and we hope that you enjoy the hockey and the ancillary sports presentation and activities we are running alongside the games. This is the first time that our England teams have worn Mizuno kit on home soil. We are grateful to Mizuno, our official kit supplier, for their support and we are pleased to be able to offer a wide range of official merchandise at our retail village for the event.

The international programme comes off the back of a very successful domestic season and our sincere thanks to the volunteers, coaches, officials, schools, and hockey clubs over the last 12 months who have worked tirelessly to provide opportunities for so many in our sport. Events like this wouldn't happen without a huge amount of support. We are particularly grateful to our HockeyMaker team whose dedication and commitment is second to none in sport, we really value them all. We also thank the staff here at Lee Valley Hockey and Tennis Centre for their support in hosting us and in the detailed planning for the event.

Finally, thank you again for all your support and please do go home and tell people about the great experience here, and about this great game of ours.

WHAT IS THE FIH HOCKEY PRO LEAGUE?

Now in its sixth season, the FIH Hockey Pro League is the annual global league for the world's best men's and women's national hockey teams – a fast-paced, fiercely competitive showcase of international talent known as the “League of the Best!”

Each season, nine teams in both the men's and women's competitions face off in a series of international stages, where multiple nations gather in one location to play two matches against each other. Every point matters. The team with the most points at the end of the season is crowned FIH Hockey Pro League Champion and lifts the prestigious trophy.

But it's not just about silverware – this year, there's even more at stake. The highest-placed teams not already qualified will secure a place at the 2026 FIH Hockey World Cup in the Netherlands and Belgium. The stakes will rise again in the coming seasons, with the 2026-27 and 2027-28 winners qualifying for the Los Angeles 2028 Olympic Games.

There's drama at the other end of the table too – the team finishing last will be relegated and replaced by the winner of the FIH Hockey Nations Cup.

In the women's FIH Hockey Pro League...

ARGENTINA

Argentina head to London sitting second in the FIH Hockey Pro League table after a strong campaign across three stages – two at home in Santiago del Estero and one in Valencia, Spain. They've played 10 matches, winning four, taking two further 'victories' via shootouts, and losing just once. With 22 goals scored and only 13 conceded, Las Leonas have found a solid rhythm as the season has progressed.

Their campaign began in December with two tightly contested shootouts following two draws against Germany – coming out on top 3-2 in the first before falling 5-4 in the second. Against reigning champions the Netherlands, they had split results with a narrow 3-2 win following a 3-2 loss.

Back in action in February, Argentina hosted Belgium and Australia. A 3-2 defeat to Belgium was quickly followed by a 2-1 win over Australia. They then shut out Belgium in a goalless draw that led to a 2-0 shootout win, and repeated their 2-1 victory over the Hockeyroos the following day.

Most recently, they made a statement in Spain, powering past the hosts with two dominant wins – 6-0 and 2-0 in back-to-back fixtures in Valencia.

Next up, Argentina face England and India in London before finishing their FIH Hockey Pro League season in Berlin with a double-header against China.

AUSTRALIA

It's been a tough FIH Hockey Pro League season so far for the Hockeyroos, who sit seventh in the table with just two outright wins from their opening ten matches. Things started brightly in Sydney, where they defeated Spain twice and edged China in a shootout, but losing to them 3-1 in the second match. However, since leaving home soil, Australia have struggled to find form.

In Argentina, they suffered narrow defeats to both the hosts and Belgium in four tightly contested games. Their most recent stage in Amsterdam proved particularly challenging, with heavy back-to-back losses against the Netherlands.

They've scored 17 goals and conceded 29, and with fixtures still to come in London and then Germany, the Hockeyroos will be aiming to rediscover their early rhythm and finish the campaign on a high.

ENGLAND

It's been a difficult campaign so far for England, who only have one way to go in the table with just one win from eight outings.

That lone victory came in Hangzhou, where

England earned a shootout point against India they produced a bright performance to beat Belgium 3-1, but heavy defeats to China, Belgium, and the Netherlands have left them with an unenviable goal difference of -20.

Their second block of matches in India offered flashes of improvement – including a gutsy shootout win over the hosts following a 2-2 draw – but defensive frailties continued to cost them, particularly against the free-scoring Dutch.

With only a single point separating them from Germany as it stands, and the two sides set to meet in their final fixture, England still have everything to play for – but they'll need to make the most of their home advantage in the upcoming matches against Argentina, Australia, and Spain if they're to climb off the bottom of the table and restore some momentum.

INDIA

India sit sixth in the standings after completing their home fixtures in Bhubaneswar, where they showed both grit and potential in a packed schedule of eight matches. They opened strongly with a thrilling 3-2 win over England, before drawing the reverse fixture 2-2 and narrowly losing in the shootout.

Despite back-to-back defeats to Spain and a heavy 4-0 loss to Germany, the team bounced back with a solid 1-0 win over the Germans the following day. Their final clashes against the Netherlands were full of attacking spirit with two goals in each game, including a 4-2 loss and a 2-2 draw followed by a shootout win.

With two wins and two shootout victories, India head into their European stages in London, Antwerp, and Germany, where they'll face Australia, Argentina, Belgium, and China – all with a top-half finish still very much in sight.

SPAIN

At the time of writing, Spain currently sit fifth in the table with four wins and a shootout victory from their first ten games. They began their campaign in Australia, where they edged China in a shootout but fell to defeats against both the hosts and China in the return fixtures.

Their form surged during the India stage, notching four consecutive wins with impressive back-to-back victories over Germany and India, including an exciting 4-3 triumph and a gritty 1-0 win in Bhubaneswar.

Returning home to Valencia, they faced a tough double-header against World Champions Argentina, suffering two heavy defeats which dented their goal difference.

Spain now head to the Netherlands (11-12 June) and Antwerp (17-18 June) before concluding their campaign in England. You can follow their most recent progress via the digital link or QR code on page 29.

In the men's FIH Hockey Pro League...

AUSTRALIA

It's been a mixed campaign so far for Australia, who currently sit eighth out of nine teams heading into the final three stages of the FIH Hockey Pro League.

The Kookaburras opened their campaign on home soil in Sydney, where a fantastic 4-2 win over the Netherlands was the highlight. They pushed Spain and the Dutch close again, but shootout defeats saw them miss out on maximum points.

In Argentina, a convincing 2-0 win over the hosts and a 3-1 victory over Belgium showed flashes of their quality.

At the time of writing, they still have four fixtures in Antwerp before heading to London for back-to-back games against England on 21-22 June. You can follow their latest form via the link and QR code on their team page on page 30.

ENGLAND

England arrive at the London stage of the FIH Hockey Pro League in strong form, currently sitting second in the table after two away stages in Argentina and India.

They kicked off their campaign in Santiago del Estero, securing a pair of impressive 3-1 wins over hosts Argentina and a dominant 8-0 victory over Ireland. A shootout win over the Irish in their other fixture ensured they left South America unbeaten.

In February, they headed to Bhubaneswar, where they earned a shootout win over Spain following a 2-2 draw, lost the return leg, then split their double-header against India – each side taking one win apiece in a competitive double-header.

With six games still to play – including clashes with Germany, Netherlands, Australia and Belgium – England are well in the mix and eyeing a strong finish to their 2024-25 campaign.

GERMANY

Germany come into the London stage of the FIH Hockey Pro League in sixth place, following a mixed campaign across the Netherlands and India.

They opened their season in Amsterdam, drawing 1-1 with the Netherlands in the opening fixture before narrowly losing the shootout, but bounced back with an exciting 3-2 win over the World's No 1 team. However, a double defeat against Belgium would have left them disappointed with their opening stage.

In Bhubaneswar, Germany looked sharper, dispatching hosts India 4-1 and racking up 8-2 and 4-2 victories against Ireland in dominant displays. They did, however, split their double-header with India, losing the second match 1-0.

With England up next in London, followed by a busy home schedule in Berlin, Germany will be looking to build momentum and climb the table in the closing stages of this year's FIH Hockey Pro League.

NETHERLANDS

The Netherlands arrive in London top of the FIH Hockey Pro League table and looking every bit the world's number one side.

It's already been a strong campaign for the reigning Olympic champions, with points collected across stages in Amsterdam, Sydney, and a home run in June still underway before they travel to England.

They opened with four tightly contested matches on home soil, including shootout wins over Germany and Belgium, before heading to Australia where they beat Spain twice and following a 4-2 victory over the hosts, then drew with Australia – earning a bonus point in the shootout after a thrilling 4-4 encounter.

Back in Amsterdam in early June, they claimed another hard-fought win over India, with five more matches at home to come before the London leg.

With consistency, depth, and big-match experience, the Dutch are showing why they're the team everyone is trying to catch.

EYES ON EUROPE...

This summer, the top nations of Europe will gather in Mönchengladbach, Germany, for the 2025 EuroHockey Championships, Europe's most prestigious tournament.

Hosted at the iconic Warsteiner HockeyPark, the competition will run from 8 to 17 August, bringing together eight of the strongest men's and women's national teams.

The tournament format sees teams split into two pools of four, with Pool A and Pool B battling it out in the group stage. The top two teams in each pool will progress to the semi-finals and, ultimately, the gold medal match. Teams finishing in the bottom two of each group will move into Pool C, where they'll contest 5-8 place classification matches.

In the men's competition, England have been drawn in Pool B alongside Germany, France and Poland. They open their campaign against Poland on 8 August at 6pm, then face hosts Germany in a much-anticipated clash on 10 August at 4pm, before completing their pool matches against France on 12 August at 1:30pm.

Meanwhile, in the women's competition, England will play in Pool B with Belgium, Scotland and Spain. Their tournament begins with a Home Nations derby against Scotland on 10 August at 9:15am, followed by Belgium on 11 August at 5pm, and Spain on 13 August at 5pm.

Classification matches for both competitions will be held between 14-17 August, with semi-finals and finals wrapping up what promises to be a gripping week of hockey.

In the 2023 edition, also held in Mönchengladbach, the Netherlands won both the men's and women's titles.

On the men's side, England produced a strong campaign, defeating hosts Germany in a dramatic shootout in the semi-finals after a goalless draw. However, they fell just short in the final, losing 2-1 to the Netherlands, and settled for a well-earned silver medal.

The women's team faced a tougher path. After reaching the semi-finals, they were beaten 7-0 by the Netherlands and then lost the bronze medal match 3-0 to Germany, finishing fourth.

Whether you're cheering from home or lucky enough to attend in person, the 2025 EuroHockey Championships promise top-tier European competition, fierce rivalries, and unforgettable moments on the pitch.

EUROHOCKEY RETURNS TO ENGLAND FOR A LANDMARK SUMMER IN 2027

England Hockey, backed by UK Sport, has secured the rights to host the EuroHockey Championships in summer 2027 marking the return of hockey's biggest European event to home soil for the first time since 1915.

Following previous editions in Manchester (2007) and London (2015), the 2027 tournament promises to be the most ambitious yet. For the first time in history, both the men's and women's competitions will expand from eight to twelve nations – bringing more teams, more talent, and more top-class hockey to English fans.

Two Venues. One Unforgettable Experience.

The preliminary rounds of the competition will take place at the iconic Lee Valley Hockey and Tennis Centre, with the semi-finals and finals part of a show-stopping experience known as Big Stadium Hockey – with the exact venue to be confirmed.

What is Big Stadium Hockey?

Big Stadium Hockey is a revolutionary concept that enables elite-level hockey matches to be played in major sporting arenas not traditionally designed for the sport.

First trialled at the Twickenham Stoop in 2019, this award-

The Twickenham Stoop was transformed from rugby ground to hockey stadium with 'Big Stadium Hockey' in 2019.

A similar setup – at a venue yet to be confirmed – will host the EuroHockey semi-finals and final in 2027.

winning pioneering project saw temporary, international-standard hockey pitches installed over existing stadium turf. That year, Great Britain's men and women played in front of a packed house – the largest hockey crowd in the UK since London 2012 – creating an electric atmosphere and an unforgettable spectacle.

Inclusion on the International Stage

As part of the 2027 Championships, England will also proudly host the EuroHockey ID Championships – a biennial international tournament for athletes with intellectual disabilities. Organised by EuroHockey in collaboration with Special Olympics, Virtus, and the International Paralympic Committee, the ID Championships are a celebration of inclusivity, representation, and opportunity in sport. In 2023, England claimed a silver medal in the final against Germany, and they'll be looking to go one better in 2027 on home soil.

A Summer to Remember

The EuroHockey Championships 2027 will be a celebration of world-class sport, innovation, and inclusivity.

With bigger line-ups, trailblazing stadium technology, and the best European teams on display, England is ready to deliver a hockey summer like no other.

Known as Las Leonas (The Lionesses), Argentina's women's field hockey team are a global powerhouse with a fierce reputation and rich history.

They were the first Argentine women's team to win an Olympic medal in any sport, going on to claim four Olympic medals and two World Cup titles, led by the legendary Luciana Aymar. Ranked second in the world, Argentina are renowned for their tenacity, flair, and attacking style.

The team's nickname and lioness emblem were born at the 2000 Sydney Olympics and have become symbols of national pride. Under coach Fernando Ferrara, they continue to challenge the world's best with a strong blend of youth and experience.

KEEP AN EYE ON Agustina Gorzelany, a penalty corner specialist with seven goals so far, and Brisa Bruggesser, the tournament's top field goal scorer. Their firepower makes Las Leonas a serious threat as they look to consolidate a position near the top of the table.

The Hockeyroos – Australia's iconic women's field hockey team – have long been a dominant force in the sport.

With a glittering history that includes three Olympic golds, two World Cup titles and four Commonwealth Games, they remain one of the most decorated teams in the sport's history.

From the late 1980s through to the early 2000s, the Hockeyroos were virtually unstoppable, regularly topping world rankings and racking up silverware. Though the landscape of international hockey has grown more competitive, Australia – currently ranked 5th in the world – continues to be a serious contender in every major tournament.

Now led by head coach Katrina Powell, the team blends experience and emerging talent, with stalwart Jane Claxton continuing to anchor the midfield.

Expect sparks to fly when they meet long-time rivals England – a match-up steeped in fierce pride and sporting history between the two countries.

ENGLAND

WORLD #8

The England women's national team return to the FIH Hockey Pro League this season after two cycles competing as Great Britain in preparation for the Olympics.

Ranked 8th in the world, they're a side in transition, blending experienced internationals with exciting new talent. In the past year, several players have earned senior England call-ups, including Becky Manton, Georgie Gardens, Katie Curti, Maddie Axford, Paige Gillott and Alice Atkinson, all making promising starts.

The team are the reigning Commonwealth Games champions and bring a proud record in European competition, including EuroHockey gold in 1991 and 2015. While FIH Hockey Pro League results have been tough so far, England are looking to regroup on home soil and build momentum towards future success.

With youth, speed, and home support behind them, England will be aiming to make the most of their return to the global stage under the England flag.

India return to the FIH Hockey Pro League aiming to climb the standings and showcase their continued growth on the world stage.

Ranked 9th in the world, they narrowly missed out on a place at Paris 2024, falling to Japan in the bronze medal match at January's Olympic Qualifier in Ranchi – a disappointment that will only have fuelled their hunger to compete.

Their historic fourth-place finish at the Tokyo 2020 Olympics remains a landmark moment, and the team has continued to evolve since winning the FIH Hockey Nations Cup in late 2022.

Last season, they struggled in the FIH Hockey Pro League, finishing second from bottom, though they pushed Great Britain close with two 3-2 losses on English soil in two entertaining encounters.

Now, they're out to prove their potential, aiming to turn narrow defeats into meaningful wins as their European stages of the league unfold.

Inspiring the Next Generation Through the FIH Hockey Pro League

FIH Hockey Pro League provides a great opportunity for our elite players to come up against the best in the world while maximising the event to inspire more young people to play hockey. England Hockey, alongside key partners, is working to ensure hockey is visible, relevant and accessible to communities surrounding Lee Valley.

With the support of local School Games Organisers, we've engaged over 40 Primary Schools which have run introductory 'skill station' festivals. These events backed by local clubs and Darcy Bourne's 'Raising Her Game' charity, have helped to put on taster sessions on to encourage more young people to give Hockey a try.

Our schools' day on 17 June, will see 2,000 pupils from local primary schools come and watch the stars play, and then two days later, 100 pupils will come and participate in a skill station festival on 19 June, replicating the skills of their new heroes on the very same pitch.

In addition, we are working with Street Games to help introduce hockey to young people from low-income, underserved communities. This will see 250 young people from Street Games attending the matches on 18 June, and also six lucky volunteers undertaking the important duties as part of the 'Ball Patrol'.

Finally, we truly believe that hockey is a fully inclusive sport, and we'll be inviting young people with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities to come and give it a try at our Flyerz Festival on 20 June.

Flyerz is our inclusive hockey programme, and as well as the festival, 10 of our Flyerz participants will get the chance to go out on to the pitch with the England team on 18 June as mascots.

The England men's national team return to the FIH Hockey Pro League this season, having made way for Great Britain during the Olympic cycle.

Ranked third in the world, England are one of the top forces in international hockey outside of the Olympics, where English players represent Great Britain along with players from Scotland and Wales.

England's proud hockey history includes a silver medal at the 1986 Hockey World Cup, held on home soil in London. They've also claimed three Commonwealth Games bronze medals – in 1998, 2014, and most recently in Birmingham in 2022.

Competing regularly in the World Cup and European Championships, England are known for their attacking flair and fast-paced style. With a strong squad and a home crowd behind them, they'll be aiming for a big impact in London as they continue their push in this season's FIH Hockey Pro League campaign.

HEAD COACH

MANAGER
Eric LANGNER

The German men's team remain one of the powerhouses of international hockey and arrive in London ranked fourth in the world.

Since last appearing here, they've added an Olympic silver medal to their honours – losing a dramatic shootout to the Netherlands in the Paris 2024 final after a 1-1 draw.

Germany's decorated history includes four Olympic golds, three World Cup titles, and eight European Championship golds. While they're still chasing their first FIH Hockey Pro League title, they remain a consistent and clinical presence in the competition.

Renowned for their discipline, structure and technical ability, the Germans are capable of grinding out results or cutting through teams with attacking flair. Whether chasing points or sharpening form ahead of the next major tournament, Germany are always a side to watch – and one that few teams enjoy facing.
